RECEPTION OF K. K. K. SORORITY

Three Hundred Guests Attend Auspicious Event Given by the Local Chapter

A DELIGHTFUL EVENT

Carefully Appointed and Appropriate Decorations were Feasted for the the Guests

One of the most auspicious and delightful social events ever given in this city by the local chapter of the Kappa Kappa Kappa sorority was the reception this afternoon at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Willard Amos in North Perkins street.

The affair was held today for a three-fold purpose; first, it was the seventh anniversary of the founding of the State sorority at the May Wright Classical school in Indianapolis; second, it was the birthday anniversary of the Father of our country, and third, it was the occasion of receiving into the local chapter five new members, the Misses Bertha and Jessie Monjar, Grace Frazee, Nelle Bigham and Ida Mariam Spurrer and the ratifying of the pledge of Miss Alice Winslip, who will wear the white and black until she is initiated.

Three hundred invitations were out and all the members of the Tri Kappa stood in the receiving line. The hours of receiving was from 2 to 6 o'clock, being happily apportioned for different ages of sorority folk.

The Amos home was beautifully and tastefully decorated throughout, the national colors predominating in the reception rooms with plants and palms artistically arranged in nooks and opening offsets. It remained for the dining room to reach the climax in the decoration scheme, for there the sorority carried out the effect and sentiment of their club. The room was done in black and white, the Kappa colors. Panels of black with K. K. K. and the skull and cross bone emblem in white relief hung on the walls. From the dining room table in the center of the room ran streamers of white and black to a rosette attached to the chandelier, around which was entwined smilax. Banks of ferns, palms and tropical plant, with clusters of daisies, sweet peas and narcissuses furnished a fitting background for the other decorations. White carnations, —the sorority flower—were used in profusion.

The dining room was arranged by George F. Moore, the florist.

Mrs. Will M. Sparks and Mrs. Frank Mull presided in the dining room and were assisted by the Misses Rhea Bigham, Rena Wilkes, Clorine Amos and Wanda Wyatt. Favors of black and white were given following the collation.

Signor Maroni, a harpist, of Indianapolis, rendered a pleasing program of classical solos on an Italian harp. Wallace the photographer made a group picture of the sorority which will be used in their annual souvenir.

The following young ladies, attired in smart frocks and a true warmth in an extended hand were in the receiving line, Pearl Kitchen, Mary Lewis, Carrie Kitchen, Anna Megee, (Helen Campbell, Ethel Amos, Bertha Megee, Jessie Kitchen, Henrietta Coleman, Marie Crosby, Mary Amos, Nelle Bigham, Grace Frazee, Bertha Monjar, Jesse Monjar and Ida Mariam Spurrer.

PATRIOTIC SERVICES WILL BE INTERESTING

One of the features of the patriotic exercises to be given at the Main Street Christian church Sunday evening will be the patriotic songs and music.

The pastor, R. W. Abberley, will deliver a patriotic lecture sermon on "Washington, the Soldier, Statesman and Christian" the W. R. C., G. A. R. and Patriotic Sons will be guests of honor, and a cordial invitation is extended to everyone.

THREE DRY DAYS FOR CITY OF INDIANAPOLIS

Primary Friday, Washington's Birthday and Sunday Makes Three "Blanks"

Absolute prohibition, so far as the law has power to enforce the same, existed in the capital city of Indiana yesterday, and it will continue until five o'clock a. m. next Monday morning.

This resulted from the fact that the primary election was held on Friday, today is Washington's birthday, and the next is Sunday. Of late there has been a rigid enforcement of the liquor laws at Indianapolis, so that it is thought there will be little doing in the drinking line during the period named.

LARGE NUMBER OUT LAST NIGHT

To Hear Evangelist Willis Deliver his Famous Sermon on "Assurance"

PASTOR SPOKE BRIEFLY

And His Pointed Message Thrilled his Hearers with Much Religious Enthusiasm

There was a large audience at the First Presbyterian church last evening to hear Evangelist Willis, and were well pleased with his discourse.

The Evangelist took for his subject "Assurance" and brought out the point that by faith in the Lord Jesus Christ we may know that we are saved.

Mr. Willis did not score the dance hall, theatre and card table last evening, but assured his congregation that they should have the privilege of listening to him again on these things before the meetings closed.

The subject was one which held the close attention of the audience and evangelist Willis was well pleased with the spirit in which they received his message.

At the close of Mr. Willis's talk the pastor Rev. J. F. Cowling spoke briefly but to the point on matters of vital importance, which concern the christian man and woman.

This was the first time Rev. Cowling has spoken and although his looks betrayed the fact that he is not in good physical condition, yet his words thrilled his auditors with a spirit of religious enthusiasm, which was much in evidence at the close of the meeting.

It is expected that the evangelist will preach one of his best sermons Sunday evening and this will be made the best meeting of the series.

The meeting will continue throughout next week.

COLORED ORATOR SPEAKS SUNDAY

Treat is Assured for Those who Like a High Class
Oratory

Prof. J. H. Williams, the local colored orator of State renown, will speak Sunday afternoon at the court house under the auspices of the Labor Lyceum.

He will speak on the race problem, and his message will well be worth hearing, as he is one of the best orators, white or black, in Indiana.

—Dr. and Mrs. N. G. Wills and son Clark, of Connersville, are the guests of her parents Mr. and Mrs. L. M. Clark.

DEATH CAME AS A GREAT SHOCK

To the Many Friends of William McDaniel, who Died
Last Night

HERE WEDNESDAY NIGHT

And Participated in County Meeting and Banquet Given by Odd Fellows

Little did William McDaniel, one of Rush county's most respected farmers, think as he sat at the banquet table at the Odd Fellows county meeting in this city Wednesday evening, laughing and jesting with his many friends, that he would be cold in death in forty-eight hours, but his death is only another of the many illustrations of the words of the Master who said, "death comes as a thief in the night."

Mr. McDaniel was at the county meeting of the Odd Fellows and enjoyed himself with his brothers, although he had a slight cold, and his condition gradually became alarming and to the surprise of his family and friends he died Friday night about 10 o'clock, death resulting from neuralgia of the heart. When the sad news of his sudden death was spread throughout the county it came to his many friends like a thunderbolt from a clear sky.

Deceased was born in Posey town-ship in 1853, having lived in that town-ship all his life.

He was the son of the late Robert and Harriett McDaniel, two old pioneers of Rush county.

He was a staunch member of the Independent Order of Odd Fellows and held his membership at Shelbyville.

Deceased leaves a wife and a large family of children several of whom are married.

The funeral services will be held at the Christian church, near Floyd's cemetery in Shelby county, Monday morning, under the auspices of the Odd Fellows lodge of which he was a member. Burial will occur at Floyd's cemetery.

DOES NOT CUT ANY ICE WITH WEEKS

Rushville Horsemen Jogs His Horses all Winter in Short Grass Meadow

It's always fair weather with George Weeks, a local horseman, when it comes to the matter of training horses. If race horses are kept in good condition by exercise throughout the winter, they are naturally hardened for the racing season. But ice-covered and rough roads prevents nearly all the horsemen in the north from keeping their stables in constant training. Not so with George Weeks. He has hit upon a happy plan of utilizing a meadow at the Weeks farm, southwest of this city.

A short growth of grass in the meadow removes the danger of a horse falling when the earth is covered with ice and sleet, and Mr. Weeks never misses a day of training, no matter what the weather man hands out, and he may be seen in the most inclement weather jogging a "hopeful" across the field. He has several promising animals in his stables.

Sam Trabue, guardian of Essie Cassidy has filed suit in the Rush Circuit Court against James E. Hinchman, Frank J. Hall and James H. Hinchman on note. Demand $800.

Percy Badorf, of Andersonville, one of Rush county's prominent teachers, was in this city today on business.

SEVEN MEALS IN A HUMAN CAMEL

Professional Beggar, who Wanted Liquor, Got His Fill of Food

HAD A BAD DAY HERE

For in Each Instance the Benefactor Accompanied him to the Restaurant

A human camel with a tapeworm in his displacement hit Rushville yesterday and likewise hit a number of generous citizens for "the price of a meal" meeting with much success on every hand.

The fellow really was hungry to begin with, but after he had partaken of seven meals in three hours he probably had that "gnawing feeling" appeased. The manner in which he plied his profession was prima facie evidence that he was a professional beggar. At heart he was not a gourmand, but when a fellow asks another for the price to get something to eat, on the pretense he is starving, and the food, instead of money is offered him in the benefactor's presence there is nothing left but to eat it. And by this same token was seven lunches "put away" by the human camel.

Along those who were touched by the fellow's pleas was Earl Payne and Dr. F. R. McElanahan, and at the Conroy restaurant last night the story was told.

In truth, the fellow wanted money to buy intoxicants, but in each instance, the parties he asked for something to eat accompanied him to the cafe and "squared things."

On numerous occasions when such fellows are taken to a restaurant to be fed, and the good hearted, Gentleman Bountiful leaves the place, they shy up to the proprietor saying:

"I didn't want anything to eat. Just give me a dime of that quarter and I'll be satisfied." But the "graff" didn't work yesterday and the fellow was obliged to crowd his system with an elegant sufficiency of foodstuffs, much to his bitter disappointment.

C. H. & D. RAILROAD MAY CHANGE HANDS

Rumored in Railroad Circles
That it Will be Sold to Goulds

In railroad circles a report is current that the Gould interests, have an eye on the C. H. & D. and will take control of that property when the present receivership is closed up. It is said that a deal has already been partly consummated. There was a report to this effect several years ago as it would give the Gould line entrance into Cincinnati, Indianapolis and several other important points. Later, when the Hollens-Zimmerman crowd conceived the formation of the C. H. & D. Pere Marquette, Toledo Railroad and Terminal and the Chicago & Louisville and organized it as the Great Central System, it was insisted that the Gould interests were back of it, which afterwards proved untrue. While there is no question that the control of the C. H. & D. would greatly strengthen the position of the Gould property, the present rumor, in view of the present financial conditions, would be entirely out of harmony.

Mrs. Jennie York, of Glenwood, was called to this city today by the serious illness of her daughter, Mrs. W. G. Beaver, in East Fifth street.

John Foster has filed suit in the Rush Circuit Court against James E. Hinchman on note. Demand $75.

"OLD GLORY" FLOATED IN ALMOST EVERY STREET

City Schools Were Only Public Buildings where Flag was Not Seen

"Old Glory" was unfurled from windows of the court house, business places, Patriotic Son's lodge room and Daily Republican windows today in commemoration of the birthday of "The Father of His Country" and the display gave evidence that the citizens of Rushville are still filled with that patriotism that should be in the heart of every American.

It is a sad fact however that the city schools, who have such a beautiful new flags presented to them by the Patriotic Sons of America, a few months ago, did not hoist the "Stars and Stripes" above them in memory of him, who was "First in war, first in peace and first in the hearts of his countrymen."

BAN IS PLACED ON ALL TOPERS

Greenfield Mayor Follows
Plan Started in Rushville
Several Months Ago

WE STARTED BUT STOPPED

Now it Would be Well for the City Officials to Emulate Our Imitators

Mayor John B. Hinchman, of Greenfield, has prepared a list of sixty-four names of persons who are habitual drunkards or hard drinkers, and has served notice on all the saloon proprietors to sell them no liquor.

The same plan was suggested by the Daily Republican some time ago in this city, and it was finally taken up by Mayor Cowing and Deputy Prosecutor Newbold, but evidently in a light vein, for nothing ever came of it.

But action should be taken. The officials owe it to the community in general and the families of the men who drink in particular. The saloon men would welcome the order as it would rid them of a nuisance, the county would be better off, society in general would be improved, and in the end, the man placed on the prohibitive list would rise up and call the project a blessed one. Let us have the list.

PECULIAR AND PAINFUL INJURY

Surgeon Had to Cut Away Flesh to Remove Hat Pin in Woman's Hand

While cleaning the hard wood floor with a cloth today Mrs. James A. Thompson of North Harrison street met with a peculiar and painful accident. In making a sweeping movement a large hat pin lying on the floor, was run into the fleshy part of her right hand and Dr. J. C. Sexton was called to remove it after cutting the flesh.

BE HONEST IN 1908 AND PAY THE PASTOR

Rev. T. T. Carpenter, pastor of the Second M. E. Church, has a novel scheme for collecting church dues this year. On a printed ticket which he distributes to his parishioners on receipts of twenty five cents appears the following greeting admonition: "Be Honest. —1908—Pay your Pastor—Twenty-Five Cents. T. T. Carpenter

SIX HUNDRED BLACK LISTED

In the Compilation of the "Dead Beats and Slow Pays"
in Rushville

IN FORCE NEXT MONDAY

Seventy-five Business Men Organize to Protect Themselves Against Bad Accounts

Beginning Monday the "Black List," compiled by the local merchants and business men will be distributed and go into effect at once. It is composed of the names of people classed as professional "dead beats" and quite a number are "very slow pay." In many instances the names of parties owning property and well fixed in this world's goods, appear on the list. Not a few of them have property in their own name and could be compelled to pay by law, but this method is usually avoided as it incurs much expense.

Practically every business man in Rushville is a member of the association which is known as the Business Men's Protective Association. Over 650 names appear on the first list, including the county people. It will be a violation of the organization for any merchant to credit any person whose name appears on the list, and a fine will be imposed for breaking this rule. Will Mulno has had charge of the compilation.

It is understood that a number of people are complaining saying they had notification that their names were to go down on the "black list" and they say they mean to buy their goods out of the city in the future. But the merchants say they would be better off without such trade, for they lose money on them every year.

SILVER WEDDING WAS CELEBRATED

Enjoyable Social Event at the Home of Mr. and Mrs. H. E.
Daubenspeck

One of the most elaborate and enjoyable social functions which ever occurred in Union township was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. H. E. Daubenspeck last evening in honor of their silver wedding anniversary. The occasion was enjoyed by their many invited guests.

The country home was beautifully and artistically decorated appropriate for the occasion. Mr. and Mrs. Daubenspeck were the recipients of many beautiful and useful articles. Wagoner's orchestra of this city furnished the music.

LOADED TO THE GUARDS ON MONDAY

Will be the Rural Route Carriers
—May Utilize a Boon Pole Arrangement

Monday the rural route carriers will have to go out boon pole on their wagons, for never before did they have a conglomeration of mail matter to deliver. Today being Washington's birthday no delivery was made and this mail, together with the heavy mail of Sunday, including the Sunday newspapers will be delivered Monday.

—Mr. and Mrs. Harry Brown who were the guests of Ed. L. Beer and family this week, returned to their home in West Manchester, Ohio.

DOING GOOD WORK

Purdue Experiment Station Has Resulted In Great Good to Farmers.

ACTIVITY OF THE STATION

In the Past Year Twice as Many Bulletins and Reports Issued as in Any Previous Year.

Work Yielding Results of High Value to Farmers Who Are Not Backward In Appreciation.

Lafayette, Ind., Feb. 22.—Director Arthur Goss has just completed the twentieth annual report of the Purdue experiment station, showing the immense volume of work done there in the year ending June 30, 1907, and giving an idea of the scope and value of the information disseminated by the station in that time. Thousands of farmers throughout Indiana and other states shared in the benefits of the research work's results, and with the handsome new $100,000 experiment station building nearing completion the station will soon be able to engage in much more extensive work for Indiana farmers.

The activity of the station in the year covered in the report is indicated by the fact that twice as many bulletins and circulars were issued as in any previous year. In the agricultural and chemical department the crop and soil improvement work has been actively prosecuted and considerably extended. The work is yielding results of high value to farmers and is being appreciated by them to a greater and greater extent as indicated by the increased interest manifest.

MAYOR AGAINST MINISTERS

Will Not Proceed Against the Terre Haute Sunday Theaters.

Terre Haute, Ind., Feb. 22.—Mayor Lyons, as well as Prosecuting Attorney Cooper, has told the ministers he will not proceed against the Sunday theaters, and he gives as one reason that the class of people who attend Sunday theaters would find worse places to go to if the theaters were closed, which estimate of the theater-goers is causing some comment. Mayor Lyons said the ministers can have the machinery of the law to assist them if they get out warrants, but that he would have nothing to do with the prosecutions.

The mayor said: "I believe the majority of the citizens want the theaters open and from my experience I know that the closing of the theaters and places of amusement would result in far worse conditions than the members of your committee imagine."

The ministers have called attention to the class of performances selected for Sundays. At one house, which is open only on Sundays, there is extravaganzas, and at the Grand most of the attractions are of the chorus girl class. The ministers expect word from Attorney General Bingham soon in reply to their inquiry as to what step can be taken to have the law enforced.

Victim of Trap Gun Sues.

Lafayette, Ind., Feb. 22.—The case in which Louis Schultz, a butcher, plaintiff, is suing Ernest Gudman, a wealthy sausage maker, for $5,000 damages for personal injuries suffered by him on May 5, 1907, as a result of the discharge of a shotgun arranged by Gudman as a trap to catch chicken thieves, is on trial in superior court. According to Schultz's complaint he was looking for his dog, when he went near the henhouse. When Schultz put his hand on the henhouse door to look beneath through an opening to see if his dog was there he moved the door and a string connected with the door and the trigger of the gun by means of pulleys. This pulled the trigger and the gun was discharged, crippling Schultz for life.

Autoists Encounter Drifts.

Goshen, Ind., Feb. 22.—When the American car, leader in the New York to Paris trip, driven by Montague Roberts, reached Goshen, it was in good condition. It took nearly seven hours to work through the sixteen miles of snowdrifts between Ligonier and Goshen. The American team pilot car, driven by John Sperry of Cleveland, was stranded three miles from Goshen, being out of gasoline. It was towed in by a four-horse team. The American party spent the night here and left early this morning for Michigan City via South Bend.

Escaped Into Illinois.

Petersburg, Ind., Feb. 22.—Charles Crabtree, who shot E. L. Young, coal miner, at Massey, escaped the vigilance of the officers and crossed into Illinois, boarding a train at Ayreshire. Young's condition is serious. The bullet entered the right shoulder, struck the breast bone and came out beneath the arm. It was many hours before the wounded man received surgical attention, the high water making it difficult to summon physicians.

Caused by Crossed Wire.

Mishawaka, Ind., Feb. 22.—Fire in the Oscar Miller clothing store caused a loss of $17,000 to stock and building. A crossed electric wire was at fault. The loss is covered by insurance.

CONGRESSIONAL DOINGS

The House Occupied With Affairs of Washington's Street Railways.

Washington, Feb. 22.—The time of the house of representatives Friday was devoted to the consideration of what is known as the District of Columbia Street railway tract, that is the bill including extension of streetcar lines to the new union station. The subject of universal streetcar transfers in Washington elicited especial attention, and no disposition was manifested to amend the provision except to strengthen it. Today also was given over to District of Columbia business.

Senator Perkins of California spoke in the senate in justification of expenditures for the upbuilding of the American navy of the policy of sending the fleet into the Pacific ocean. He reviewed the achievements of the navy and declared that it was the most popular branch of the government service.

The senate adopted the Tillman resolution authorizing the attorney general to prosecute the transportation companies of Oregon that have received public lands and have violated the terms of the grant. In the senate this afternoon Senator McCumber of North Dakota read Washington's farewell address.

EMBEZZLEMENT CHARGED

Under Missouri Warehouse Act J. E.
Brady Is Held to Answer.

Kansas City, Feb. 22.—Eleven indictments charging the embezzlement of $76,000 and violations of the warehouse act forbidding the issuing of warehouse receipts on merchandise not in the warehouses when the collateral was issued, were returned by the grand jury against J. E. Brady, formerly president of the Merchants Refrigerating company, which failed last November. Two indictments charge Brady with the embezzlement of $76,000 from the Merchants' Refrigerating company, and the other nine indictments, each containing two counts, charge violations of the warehouse act. Violation of the warehouse act is a felony under the law. The nine violations of the act are said to cover transactions in butter and eggs aggregating in value about $49,000. Brady was arrested and later was released on bond.

A Change in Vote.

Frankfort, Ky., Feb. 22.—Balloting in the race for United States senator took on an added interest yesterday when Representative L. W. Arnett of Covington, who has consistently voted for ex-Governor Beckham, cast his vote for Congressman Ollie James. He said he is satisfied at last that Beckham cannot win and wants to see a Democrat elected. The ballot resulted as follows: Beckham, 57, Bradley 57, James 2, Campbell 2, Allen 1. Necessary to elect, 61.

AN EARNEST INVITATION

People of the Island Continent Express a Warm Desire to See Our Big Battleships.

Secretary Root Is Not Yet Able to Announce Coming Movement of Fleet.

Washington, Feb. 22.—Interesting and important news relative to the further movements of the American battleship fleet has been made public by Secretary Metcalf, comprising an invitation from the Australian government to have the fleet, or at least some of it, visit that country. Secretary Root's reply is the first authentic indication as to the intended movements of the fleet after its journey to San Francisco has been completed.
After expressing his appreciation of the invitation the secretary says:

"The eventual movements of our fleet have not yet been determined.
While it is probable that the vessels will return by way of Suez, I would be glad if some of them could be sent by the Australian route, but it would be premature to promise this."

The invitation was first mentioned in a letter by Hon. Fred Deakin, prime minister of Australia, addressed to John P. Bray, American consul general at Melbourne, dated Dec. 24. In his letter transmitting the communication, Consul General Bray says: "I may mention that the prime minister called at the consulate general in person and urged favorable consideration of the invitation. Assuredly the prime minister in his letter voices the sentiment of the Australian community, and if it is possible for the invitation to be accepted that the heartiest welcome would await the fleet in these waters."

Secretary Metcalf, in making the correspondence public, expressed the extreme gratification of the navy department of the cordiality of the invitation and added that the matter would receive the earnest consideration of the department.

PICKING UP SLOWLY

Weather Conditions Aid in Continuing Business Depression.

New York, Feb. 22.—Bradstreet's weekly review of trade today says:
Widespread stormy weather has had the effect of dulling distributive trade, interrupting railway traffic, and restricting the movement of grain to market to the smallest volume in twenty-two months. In addition, floods in the Ohio and tributary valleys have restricted industrial operations for a time.

Jobbing trade, judging from the reports received, continues as recently noted, a good-sized aggregate of small orders for immediate or near shipment being reported at leading markets.
Millinery, drygoods and kindred lines are in chief demand, with staple goods preferred to novelties, which latter are rather neglected.

Retail trade is at a transition point and is quiet as a whole, responding to the decreased purchasing power of the wage-earning classes. Talk of reduction in wages by railroads and others is widespread.

Industrial affairs show little change, with shut-downs or short time about counterbalancing resumption. There is, for instance, more doing in finished lines of iron and steel, but in crude form rather less is doing, and the leading producing interest in woolen goods reports 65 per cent of its looms idle.

Held on Embezzlement Charge.

Rensselaer, Ind., Feb. 22.—Robert Parker of Remington, whose private bank was closed on Dec. 20, its funds having been exhausted by continuous losses, was arrested on three charges of embezzlement, the indictment having been returned by the Jasper county grand jury. Parer was admitted to bail in the sum of $500 on each of the three counts in the indictment. He has transferred all his property to the trustee of the bank and seems to be doing all in his power to make amends for his poor banking, and yet it is thought that creditors to the amount of $300,000 will receive little more than 20 cents on the dollar.

Mr. Taft Imparts Some News.

Washington, Feb. 22.—There is not a cent paid out of the United States treasury for the support of the Philippines. This statement by Secretary Taft to the house committee on insular affairs, is regarded by the administration as decidedly important information. The secretary made one exception, the small amount expended in charting the rocks of the harbors by the coast and geodetic survey, and expressed the opinion that the information obtained was cheaply obtained for the benefit of the navy.

FAMOUS PEOPLE

MRS. JOHN A. LOGAN The Life-Work of a Noble Woman.

The life of Mrs. John A. Logan, has been one of self-sacrifice, devotion, bravery and kindness, and she has endeared herself to the American people by her personality, her writings and her influence.

Born in Petersburg, Mo., in 1838, the eldest child in a family of thirteen, she early learned the cares and responsibilities of pioneer life. When she was a year old the family moved to Illinois, which was then only a territory, and it was here that her early years were spent with the exception of her schooldays at St. Vincent, a Catholic academy at Morganfield, Ky.

When the Mexican war broke out her father was appointed Captain of a volunteer regiment and went to the front, and little Mary sent him her first letter, a childish scrawl. In his happiness he showed it to a young lieutenant in his regiment to whom he was greatly attached, and laughingly said: "You may have her." Years later the young lieutenant, John A. Logan, claimed of Captain Cunningham the fulfillment of his promise, though he was a rising lawyer of thirty when he was married and his young bride only seventeen.

As prosecuting attorney of the district he won rapid recognition, and in 1858 was elected to Congress, and on his re-election two years later, Mrs. Logan spent her first winter in Washington, and scarcely had they returned home when word came of the fall of Fort Sumter, and General Logan was forced to hurry back to the Capital for the extra session then convened. The dark days of war that followed proved the courage, patriotism and devotion of Mrs. Logan, who followed her husband to many a battle-field and endured, as thousands of other women did without a murmur, the privations and dangers of camp life.

When peace dawned again on the Nation, General Logan was elected to Congress and later to the Senate, and in the social and political life of Washington, Mrs.
Logan carried her honors with an ease, grace and force that made her famous. On the death of her husband in 1886, after rallying from the paralysis of her sorrow, she began her literary life as editor of the "Home Magazine" in Washington, and in the intervals of her editorial work and her newspaper writing has found time for much philanthropic and charitable work, uniting in consecrated purpose the best that heart and hand can do for humanity. In 1904 she succeeded Miss Clara Barton as President of the Red Cross Society, a noble organization of consecrated service on the battlefield, and in all great national calamities and disasters, where the ministering hands of woman can lighten the burden of suffering.

Testing Cattle For Tuberculosis

There is an ever-increasing interest in the prevention of consumption or tuberculosis among people. All the recent experiments show more and more clearly that the disease may be contracted through the use of milk from tuber-culous cattle, even though the cows may appear to be in good health.

There is only one test which may be generally applied to cattle to determine whether they are affected with tuberculosis. This is known as the tuberculin test and consists in taking the temperature at intervals upon one day, injecting a prescribed dose of tuberculin in the evening and taking the temperatures on the succeeding day. A rise of temperature is indicative of disease, and no change in temperature is indicative of freedom from disease. The test is experimental, but conclusive. It may be applied by any competent veterinarian.

This is the season at which the test
can be applied with the least trouble, and it is advised that owners, dairymen and breeders use the test this spring.
After the cattle have been turned upon pasture, the test can not be made without more or less inconvenience.

Animals found to be tubercular should be reported to the State Veterinarian as there is a penalty provided for failure to do so. Such animals may be kept for breeding purposes under certain conditions, or may be slaughtered subject to inspection. They can not be sold to go into other herds.

A Letter Of Interest

The following letter from Postmaster Ben. L. McFarlan is of interest to all our subscribers who receive their paper by mail:

Rushville, Ind. Jan. 9th, 1908.

To The Publishers of The Republican:

Your attention is called to the following changes in the Postal Laws effective April 1st, 1908.

Section 436, Paragraph 3.
A reasonable time will be allowed publishers to secure renewals of subscriptions, but unless subscriptions are expressly renewed after the term of which they are paid, within the following periods:

Dailies, within three months;
Semi-Weeklies, within nine months;

They shall not be counted in the legitimate list of subscribers, and copies mailed on account thereof shall not be accepted for mailing at the second class rate of postage of one cent a pound, but may be mailed at the transient rate of one cent for each copy, prepaid by stamps affixed. The right of a publisher to extend credit for subscriptions is not denied or questioned, but his compliance or non-compliance with this regulation will be taken into consideration in determining whether the publication is entitled to transmission at the second-class postage rates.

Respectfully,
BEN L. MCFARLAN,
Postmaster.

To make a long story short the sum substance of the letter is "Pay Your Subscription in Advance."

This course is not a law of our own but of Uncle Sam's and there is no getting around it by us, if we want to send our papers through the mail.

On April first (time set by Uncle Sam) we will have to discontinue all papers that are not paid up to that time, (April 1st, 1908)

We would ask that any subscriber whose red tag on the paper does not read "paid" or later, give this matter their immediate attention. Remember this is Uncle Sam's law, not ours.

Obituary.

Marguerite, the beloved daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Palmer, aged 1 year, 8 months and 11 days passed away to the home beyond Feb. 19th, 1908. She was of a sweet disposition and was loved by all who knew her.
How patiently she bore her suffering for three long weeks. How we miss the little footsteps and her chattering voice that had learned to whisper the name of mama and papa; how often did those sweet lips call for papa and mama in her illness which we will never hear again.

She leaves a father, mother and little sister and other relatives and friends to mourn her loss.

Those little lips so sweet to kiss
Are closed forever now,
Those sparkling eyes that shone so bright
Beneath that pearly brow,
That little heart that beat so high,
Free from all care and gloom
Are hidden now from those she loved,
Beneath the silent tomb.

TO IMPROVE THE SCHOOLS.

Cannot Do This by Equalizing Salaries, President Elliot Says.

President Elliot of Harvard has made this statement on the subject of teachers' salaries and other educational issues:

"I have not been able to see the expediency of paying women teachers and men teachers in the public schools equal salaries. The women are, as a rule, only temporary teachers; the men, on the other hand, ought to be and usually are candidates for permanent employment during their lives.
If these two sets of employees are paid the same salaries, either the women will get too much or the men will get too little.

"I should suppose that the effect would be to diminish the number of men who would go into the service, and that it would also postpone the adoption of the most needed improvement in the public schools—namely, the reduction of the number of pupils placed in charge of one teacher.

"Perhaps the action of the labor unions concerning the wages of women would be suggestive in this case. They insist, you know, that in any given trade—as the compositor's, for example—women must be paid the same wages as men. Their object is not to benefit women, but to keep them out of the trade, and it is to be observed that they usually attain their object by this device—at least in some measure."

In Praise of the Currant.

We have been hearing a great deal recently in praise of currants, of the part they should play in a dietary and of their health giving and nourishing properties.

"If only the many good qualities of this fruit were fully known," said a famous doctor, "there would be no danger of overproduction of currants." He did not go very fully into the scientific side of the question, but he did say that currants are remarkably rich in the saccharine element in its best form. In this connection one who also speaks knowingly of the currant says the saccharin, of which the currant so largely consists, is presented in the form of grape sugar, a food that is highly valuable because it digests very easily and quickly and affords real sustenance to the body.

Then there is also the tartaric acid of the currant, which gives it such a pleasantly sharp taste. Tartaric acid is a most healthful and valuable constituent. Without it currants would be all sweet, like honey, and it would then be impossible to eat them very freely and continuously, as we should soon tire of them. And, lastly, the currant contains another very valuable element—potash. This little item has perhaps been somewhat overshadowed by its bigger neighbor, the grape sugar, but currants would fail to be the desirable agent they are in the maintenance of health if potash were not present. All foods, then, in which currants appear are to be shown especial favor by one who wishes to provide not only richly, but wholesomely, for the family table.—From February Episode, Boston.

RUSHVILLE, INDIANA, FEBRUARY 22, 1908

New Catele Courier: "Wal Deem must feel better since he got that anti-Watson slug out of his system."

It is said that there is a place in the world for every man. We do not dispute it, but too often men get into the wrong places, and the worst of it is most of them do not seem to realize it.

The people of the United States are certainly in favor of international peace arrangements, and there is reason to believe that the Senate will ratify the new arbitration treaties which the president is preparing to send in, the French treaty having been submitted already. This is as it should be. The United States has always stood first in setting to the world the example of submitting to arbitration rather than go to war, and no man has done more to promote the world's peace than Theodore Roosevelt.

As the United States is interested in protecting its home industries, it should have the same care for its women, and a too extravagant importation of impecunious titled foreigners might be provided against with a clause in the tariff bill placing a tax upon foreign junk of all sorts. A bill has been introduced in the house of representatives providing for a 25 per cent rake off for Uncle Sam upon every foreign title purchased by an American heiress and it should be enacted by all means.

We notice that a man has just died in Illinois who claimed to be a direct descendant of the celebrated Sir Francis Drake and that his life and most of his money were spent in trying to prove that he was one of the heirs to the estate. We do not know how substantiate his claim was, but if it was no better than the great majority of similar claims his time and money were wasted. It is singular that so many people possess the idea that they are the rightful heirs of wealth which does not exist or to which, if it does exist, they have no title.

The time, energy and money spent in pursuing shadowy claims could be more profitably spent in acquiring property and it would save lots of disappointment.

The following timely and sensible comment is made by the South Bend Times: "Business men should at an early day come to an agreement to make formal request of all political party managers not to pester the public with political campaigning until after August. This country needs immunity from strife and contention, excitement and boisterousness. Slowly but surely its people are settling down to rational business transactions, without any of the sporadic features that in the recent past generated recklessness and by and by eventuated in hysteria. So far as political matters are concerned, very few voters need more than four or five weeks of "education," such as is usually meted out by campaign backers. The newspapers are continually educating and keeping the public posted on matters political, and consequently the time for great campaign upheavals are past anyhow. Of course, political professional politicians don't take kindly to this sort of talk, but they are so few in numbers that their special interests are not to be placed above those of the great body of the American people. The general welfare should have first consideration."

In the course of centuries many men have attained high position and power and their fame has been trumpeted abroad. Yet today they are forgotten and it is only by searching narrowly the pages of history we learn that such personages ever lived. The sifting process constantly going on has cast them to the one side and covered them with oblivion because they were lacking in true greatness.

There are other men who with the passing years loom up larger in the estimation of mankind. Posterity recognizes even more than did the age in which they lived their virtues and abilities and their service to humanity. Such a man was Washington, of whom Gladstone so truly said that he was the greatest character produced in the eighteenth century. As one contrasts him with that other George, the obstinate and half imbecile British monarch, against whom he took arms, his superb character, lofty patriotism, and splendid services to his country stand out in bolder relief.

Of course all this was admitted even in his life time. But today, after the more than a century of varied political and other experiences the nation has endured since his death, his wisdom, political sagacity and wise statesmanship, as well as his character and military qualities, are more gratefully recognized than ever.

INDIANA POLITICS

BY ROBERT J. TUCKER

Indianapolis, Ind., Feb. 22.—Whether or not the old Democratic political organization here has been defeated is a question that will not be decided until late this afternoon. The element that has been pleased to call itself the "anti-machine" force was claiming an overwhelming victory in last night's primaries. Old organization men, on the other hand, say they have won by a comfortable majority. The primaries were characterized by bitter contests in which William Fogarty, the anti-machine candidate for county chairman, made a fine showing. His followers included many leading men of the city who went to the primaries for the first time in many years. They were keyed up to the point where they felt that there was an opportunity to deal a death-blow to the organization that has controlled local Democratic politics for more than a decade. The vote was heavy in many precincts. At Fogarty's headquarters Henry Warum declared today that they had 100 committeemen they could depend on. The statement was made that the "machine" had been crushed.

A practice which if carried to its limit would make it possible to operate state banks without going to the trouble of having any capital paid in, has been ended by the auditor of state. This method of transacting business was discovered by R. B. Oglesbee, head of the bank department in the auditor's office. When the call of Dec. 3 was sent out to state banks, it was requested that these banks in compiling their reports make a statement as to the collateral held. When the reports came in they showed that out of the 244 state banks in Indiana, 105 were holding certificates of their own capital stock as collateral for loans made by the banks to stockholders, some of whom were officers or directors. The matter was taken up by the auditor at once and banks were asked to get other security for such notes held. In some cases the loans were recalled and in other cases different collateral was obtained. As a result of this action only four state banks in Indiana now hold their own stock in this manner and these banks have agreed to substitute other security as soon as the matter can be arranged.

J. V. Zartman, secretary of the State Manufacturers' and Shippers' association, said today that since the Indiana railroad commission had decided that it had no power to enforce a reciprocal demurrage rule between the railroads and the shippers of the state, the shippers will formulate a bill to be presented to the next legislature to make reciprocal demurrage a statutory law. "The bill will be patterned after the law of some other state that has stood the test of the courts and been decided valid," he said, "and the shippers will use all their power to obtain its passage. That will be the one big fight that they will make at the next session of the general assembly. The State Manufacturers' and Shippers' association now has several hundred members and more are being added all the time. We have a field man out in the state presenting the objects of the association to the shippers in the various cities, and by the time the next legislature meets it will be a very strong organization."

Alvin Padgett, Democratic chairman of the Second district, and a young lawyer of Washington, made a formal announcement in the Democratic newspapers of the district of his candidacy for the nomination for congress. His friends say Padgett can get the solid delegation from Knox

South by the scorched equator
And the line of Capricorn,
To the wave lashed cliffs that beetle
Through the fog wrack of the Horn—

What are these slim, swift phantoms
Out of the sea mists hurried,
White as the drifting icebergs
From the jaws of the arctic world?
Four in each steady column,
Four in each line abreast—
These are the battle squadrons
Of the nation of the west.

Lords of the trackless ocean,
Mark all their giant strength,
The loom of each massive funnel,
The lift of each bow gun's length,
The frown of their barbette turrets,
The curve of their armored strakes
And the stars and stripes a-flutter Above their foaming wakes.

Ours they are, my brothers,
Need we feel shame in these,
Bearing our flag and honor
To the far antipodes.
Following Drake and Hawkins
And the gallant Sir Spenser,
With the whirling screw propellers
Of the Kearsarge and the Maine?

These are our warships, brothers,
Sprung as young eaglets grow,
From the eagle's nest of Bonhomme Richard
That fought off Scarborough,
The deathless Constitution,
With her sanded, bloody decks,
And the Hornet and the Essex,
That strewn the sea with wrecks.

These are the heirs in glory
Of her whose iron goads
Lashed back the great Virginia
That day in Hampton Roads,
Sons of the fearless Hartford,
Which led the desperate fray
When Farragut came roaring
Through shot torn Mobile bay.

Think ye these steel built monsters
Less gallant than their sires?
Fear ye the hearts that guard them
Burn low with patriot fires?
In foreign port and roadstead
Their black-mouthed guns will ring
With only friendly greetings
To those who friendship bring.

But if a foe should cross them
Or flout the flag they bear,
Because he holds them lightly
Or deems them weak, beware!
For, when the slow wrath kindled,
Speaks out in righteous ire,
With twelve inch gun and broadside
And hall of Gatling fire,

The foe who dares their anger
Shall learn in wreck and pain
Why Dewey won Manila—Macdonough, Lake Champlain;
Why Tripoli was humbled,
And Algiers lost her pride,
And why Cervera's squadron
At Santiago died.

They bear no threat of conquest,
No boast of bragart powers,
Good will is all their message
To other lands than ours.
But be it not forgotten
The puma cat has claws
That, while she soothes her kittens,
Lie sheathed in velvet paws.

North by the coasts of Chile,
Capped with Andean snow;
North through the endless surges
That roll off Callao;
North by the fair coast cities,
Where cheering thousands wait
Till, home to those who love them,
They win the golden gate.
—Joseph Mills Hanson in St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

Further slight improvement is noted in the volume of trade, and confidence in the future is also greater, but progress is slow, says Dun's Weekly Review.

A fine legal point has come up in Pennsylvania. Eighty hogs drank a lot of oil that escaped from a leak in a pipe line and all died. Now it is a question as to whether the farmer should pay for the oil his hogs drank or the oil company for the dead hogs.

There Is No Art In America.

By MARY GARDEN, American Prima Donna.

AS FOR ART IN AMERICA, THERE IS NO SUCH THING—AT LEAST NOT YET. AMERICANS ARE NOT JUDGES OF ART STANDARDS. THE MASSES CANNOT UNDERSTAND WHAT ART MEANS, AND, LIKE A LOT OF SHEEP, THE PEOPLE HERE FOLLOW THE LEADERS—THE CRITICS OF YOUR NEWSPAPERS. AND WHAT NONSENSE THAT IS!

Why should it be so? It is, I say, the critic who tells Americans what is good work. The fact that the people of France and of Italy and of Germany DO THEIR OWN THINKING AND LISTEN WITH THEIR OWN EARS makes those nations what they are—GREAT in art and in art impulse.

So long as America depends for her judgment of art upon the opinions of a handful of critics SHE WILL NOT KNOW WHAT ART IS. What develops art in a country is the battle of minds among people. Have you ever watched a theater audience? What do they go for? It is my impression from observation that they go to get away. How few there are who do not begin to fidget and prepare for after theater suppers or the suburban train about the time when instinct or a libretto tells one it is near the end of the performance. If the people were music loving people—IF THEY KNEW AND APPRECIATED MUSIC AS THEY DO ABROAD in countries where the people have been educated up to such things and are THEMSELVES the real musical censors—such a thing would not be possible.

"I Told You So"

BY ELIJAH HOPE

I told you so, namely, that the price of farm products was made to the farmer with very little regard to the open market for such products.

Let me illustrate. A few weeks ago onions were said to be very plentiful. A clipping from an Indianapolis paper, printed in the Rushville Republican, told of immense supplies of this article of commerce stored in great warehouses over the State, and of a sure loss to the owners of not less than ten cents per bushel. Onions were then quoted at 65 cents in the city markets.

Now on date of February 15th we have this copied from the Indianapolis News:

"Dry domestic onions are now quoted at $1.00 a bushel, an advance of 10 cents since yesterday morning. One merchant said, 'The onion market presents a peculiar situation.' There is only a small supply at loading stations, and when supplies carried by local houses are exhausted, it will be difficult to replace at any price. I received a letter from a merchant who operates right in the heart of the onion district in Ohio, asking me to put a price on a hundred bushel lot of onions. That gives an idea of the situation as it exists almost everywhere."

"Peculiar situation" indeed! And yet this is the exact procedure that has gone on for many years. In 1906 the navy bean crop of Indiana was moved from the gardens of Northern Indiana at a few cents above the cost of production, with the result that the crop for 1907 sells at almost double the previous year's price.

Wait until your $4.00 hogs are in the packing houses, neighbor farmers, and then ask the price of bacon. We have but two great seasons when two-thirds of the hog shipments are made. Owing to the fact that pigs thrive best in the spring and early fall, the great supply at the seasons of marketing is made an excuse for reducing the price.

75,000 hogs went into the Chicago market last Tuesday, and when they go out in the cured product, there will be a decided advance in "live stock."

This is an old game with many little side attractions, and the farmers know what is being done, but it won't do to say anything, they might burn your barn.

The Bible a Newspaper

"What is news?" is the monotonous inquiry whose answer lubricates every press in the world.

"The news" is merchandise bought and sold for millions. But if news is the essence of conversation, "good news" is its quintessence. It makes the pulse leap, the eyes sparkle and the cheek flush. It makes the sky brighter and the sun more glorious. Did you ever stop to think that the bible was a bound newspaper, two thousand years old, teeming with politics, sermons, divorces, scandals, dirges and religious news, artlessly intermingled? The prophet wrote the editorials while the psalmist filled the poet's corner. The Bible is one of the cheeriest of newspapers. It is neither an undertaker's manual nor a funeral ritual. It is a literary tonic thrilling the blood. It is filled with glad tidings and is set to the major key. It is an indestructible book because it is an immortal newspaper, whose praise and blame, whose parallels and apologies, whose flood of light to cheer and guide, no generation will ever outgrow.

If you hear the beating of drums followed by the blare of trumpets tonight in Main street, do not become confused and think a political marching club is coming down the street and that the campaign is on in earnest, for such will not be the case. The music you hear will come from the Greek Candy store where a mammoth Orchestra has been installed and will play for the first time tonight. It is fitted with many automatic apparatuses, including a bass and tenor drum, organ pipes, cymbals, etc., and represents half the strength of a full band. The instrument stands ten feet high and cost $1500. There are about one hundred records representing ten dollars each. The instrument is imported from Germany and was made by M. Welte & Soehne, Freiburg in Baden.

NEEDLE LOST IN THE WOMAN'S HAND

For Eight Weeks Mrs. Elisha Williams has Suffered Much Pain and Anxiety

Elisha Williams and wife returned to their home at Rushville today after a visit with friends at Westport, says the Greensburg News. They will consult a specialist in regard to removing a needle which Mrs. Williams ran into her hand eight weeks ago, and all efforts to locate it have been unsuccessful. Her mother, Mrs. Kenton, accompanied her home. An unsuccessful attempt was made to remove the needle yesterday by a Westport physician.

In old Greek lore there was a fabled hero, Ulysses, says the Connersville Courier, noted for his prowess and his wonderful deeds. When he was at length called from his earthly labors, the old writers beautifully and tersely expressed it thus: "Ulysses has gone forth from his wanderings, and no one is left in all Attica strong enough to bend his bow." Many in Connersville have the same feeling as regards Francis T. Root.

NEW FASHIONS FOR MEN.

Cuffs on Trousers Tabooed and Baggy Legs Must Go.

The Merchant Tailors' National Exchange brought to a close recently its three day annual convention in New York, and delegates from all parts of the world are hurrying home with no absolute law as to what men shall wear, but with a clear idea of what is the "predominating opinion" on that subject. That's what they got at the convention. Predominating opinion has this to say about masculine garments for spring and summer:

Cuffs on the ends of trousers shall be frowned upon, but they shall be encouraged for coat sleeves. They shall be "tolerated" only on soft flannel summer trousers. Cuffs on winter trousers shall be tabooed.

Fancy waistcoats may be "rich in color, but they shall be quiet in tone"—that is, while rich colored small stripes and checks will be used, "the ensemble must be modest."

Coat lapels must not be pressed down hard; they shall have the soft roll effect.

Trousers shall no longer be built full about the thighs. They shall fit not tightly, but "easily." The legs shall be just big enough in the knees for ease.

Suitings shall be of the striped variety, though predatory wealth need not wear stripes if it doesn't want to.

Coats as to their length shall be medium.

Any tailor with a patron who does not pay his bill shall send that name, with a full description of the offender, to the secretary of the exchange, who shall then send it to members of the exchange all over the country.

PROPOSAL CLUB.

Members to "Pop Question" Monthly to Different Men Until Taken.

Mrs. N. Operson, a young Chicago widow, has set Los Angeles society talking by organizing a woman's proposal club, the members of which are bound to propose at least once a month to a different man until accepted. Some foremost society girls are said to have already joined, and it is expected that more than a hundred members ultimately will be enrolled.

No names are given out, as Mrs. Operson has counseled secrecy, saying it would spoil the fun if the men knew when they receive proposals that their fair wooers were members of an organization pledged to take advantage of the opportunities afforded by leap year.

Mrs. Operson moves in the gayest circles and is distinguished by her exquisite dress and powers of entertainment. Nearly a hundred marriageable girls gathered with her at Levy's for luncheon, where the organization was launched and rules agreed to.

Each proposal must be sent to the secretary, accompanied by an affidavit. Acceptances must be promptly reported, accompanied by resignation and invitations to all members to attend a grand banquet given by the engaged couple.

Mrs. Operson is so delighted with her plan that she has arranged to spend the summer at Los Angeles.

Be Tolerant.

Do not think of knocking out another person's brains because he differs in opinion from you. It would be as rational to knock yourself on the head because you differ from yourself ten years ago.—Horace Mann.

THE SENSIBLE COUGH CURE

There are kinds of cough remedies which are as bad as the coughs they are intended to cure. They stop the coughs sometimes, but they do it by doing just what a cough cure should not do and that is to dry up the secretions and to strifle the cough by means of opiates. A real cough cure should stimulate the secretions, heal the inflamed surface and cure by removing the cause.

CHAPTER FIFTEEN

IN September, her marriage to Seward excitedly imminent, Sylvia had been seized with a passion for wholesale renunciation and rigid self chastisement. All that had been so materially desirable to her in life, all that she had heretofore worshipped in and belonging to her own world, she now denied. Down went the miniature golden calf from the altar in her private shrine, its tiny crashing fall making considerable racket throughout her world and the planets and satellites adjacent to that section of the social system which she had long been expected to dominate.

The spectacle of their youthful ruler-elect in sackcloth as the future bride of a business man had more than disconcerted them. The amazing announcement of Quarrier's engagement to Agatha Calhoun stupefied the elect, rendering in one harrowing instant null and void the thousand petty plans and plots, intrigues and schemes upon which future social constructions on the social structure had been based.

The grief and amazement of Major Belwether, already distracted by his nonparticipation through his own fault in Plank's consolidation of Amalgamated with Intercounty, was pitiable to the verge of the unpleasant. Like panic stricken rabbits, his thoughts ran in circles, and he skipped in their wake, scurrying from Quarrier to Harrington, from Harrington to Plank, from Plank to Seward, in distracted hope of recovering his equilibrium and squatting safely somewhere in somebody's luxuriantly perpetual cabbage patch. He even squeezed under the fence and hopped humbly about old Peter Calhoun, who suddenly assumed monumental proportions among those who had so long tolerated him.

But Quarrier coldly drove him away, and the increasing crowds, besieging poor, bewildered old Peter Calhoun, trod upon the major, and there was nothing for him to do but to scuttle back to his own brush heap and huddle there, squeaking pitifully.

As for Grace Ferrall, she lost no time in tears, but took Agatha publicly to her bosom, turned furiously on Quarrier in private and for the first time in her life permitted herself the luxury of telling him exactly what she thought of him.

"You had your chance," she said. "But you are all surface! There's nothing to you but soft beard and manicuring and the reticence of stupidity! The one girl for you—and you couldn't hold on to her! The one chance of your life—and it's escaped you, leaving a tuft of pompadour hair and a pair of woman's eyes protruding from the golden dust heap your father buried you in. Now you'd better sit there and let it cover your mouth, and try to breathe through your nose. Agatha is looking for a new sensation. She's tried everything, now she's going to try you. That's all. She will be an invaluable leader, Howard, and we shall not yawn, I assure you. But, oh, the chance you've lost, for lack of a drop of red blood and a barber to give you the beard of a man!"

Which merely deepened the fear and hatred which Quarrier had entertained for his pretty cousin from the depths of his silky wadded cradle. As for Kemp Ferrall, now third vice president of Intercounty, he only laughed with the tolerance of a man in safety, and, looking at Quarrier through the pickets of the financial fence, not only forgot how close his escape had been, but, being a busy and progressive young man, began to consider how he might ultimately extract a little profit from the expensive tenant of the inclosure.

Grace made the journey to town to express herself freely for Sylvia's benefit. But when she saw Sylvia the girl's radiant beauty checked her, and all she could say was: "My dear, my dear, I knew you would do it! I knew you would fling him on his head! It's in your blood, you little jade—you little jilt! You minx of a baggage! I knew you'd behave like all women of your race!"

Then she drove to the Santa Regina, where Marion was to join her in her return to Shotover. And she was already trying to make up her disturbed mind as to which might prove the more suitable for Marion—Captain Voucher, gloomily recovering from his defeat by Quarrier, or Billy Fleetwood, who didn't want to marry anybody.

In the meanwhile Seward's new duties as second vice president of Intercounty had given him scant leisure for open air convalescence. He was busy with Plank. He was also busy with the private investigation stirred up at the Patrons club and the Lenox and which was slowly but inevitably resulting in clearing him, so that his restoration to good standing and full membership remained now only a matter of formal procedure.

So Seward was becoming a very busy man among men, and Plank, still carrying on his broad shoulders burdens unbearable by any man save such a man as he, shook his heavy head and ordered Seward into the open. And Seward, who had learned to obey, obeyed.

But September had nearly ended when Leila, in Plank's private car, attended by Seward and Sylvia and two trained nurses, arrived at the Fells. The nurses—Plank's idea—were a surprise to Leila, and the day after her arrival at the Fells she dismissed them, got out of bed and dressed and came downstairs all alone on a pair of sound though faltering legs.

Sylvia and Seward were in the music room, very busily figuring out the probable cost of a house in that section of the city east of Park avenue, where the newly married imprudent are forming colonies—a just punishment for those reckless brides who marry for love and are obliged to drive over two car tracks to reach their wealthy friends and relatives of the golden zone.

"What have you been playing?" asked Leila. "What do you find to do with yourself, Sylvia, with that plump sunburned boy at your heels all day long? Are there no men about?"

"One's coming today," said Sylvia, laughing, and slipping her arm around Leila's waist she strolled with her out through the tall glass doors to the terrace, with a backward look of airy dismissal for Seward.

Plank had wired from New York the night before that he was coming. In another hour he would be there. Leila knew it perfectly well, and she looked into the wickedly expressive young face of the girl beside her, eyes soft but unsmiling.

"Child, child," she murmured, "you do not know how much of a man a man can be!"

"Yes, I do!" said Sylvia hotly. Leila smiled. "Hush, you little silly! I've talked Stephen and praised Stephen to you for days and days, and the moment I dare mention another man you fly at me, hair on end!"

"Oh, Leila, I know it! I'm perfectly mad about him, that's all. Look at him as he saunters across the lawn, Leila! Look at him!"

"Well? I see him."

"Isn't he almost an ideal?"

"He is. He certainly is, dear."

"Do you think he walks as though he were perfectly well?"

"He may be coming down with whooping cough."

Sylvia rose indignantly, but Leila pulled her back to the sun warmed marble bench.

"A girl in love loses her sense of humor temporarily. Sit down, you little vixen!"

"Leila, you laugh at everything when I don't feel like it."

"I'm not in love, and that's why."

"You are in love."

They sat there in the sun, Leila's hand lying idly in Sylvia's, the soft sea wind stirring their hair and in their ears the thunderous undertone of the mounting sea.

"Look at Stephen," murmured Sylvia, her enraptured eyes following him as he strolled hatless and coatless along the cliff's edge, the sun glimmering on his short hair, a tall, slim, well coupled, strongly knit shape against the sky and sea.

But Leila's quick ear had caught a significant sound from the gravel drive behind her, and she stood up, a delicious color tinting her face.

"Are you going in?" asked Sylvia. Then she, too, heard the subdued whirring of a motor from the front of the house, and she looked at Leila as she turned and recrossed the terrace, walking slowly, but erect, her pretty head held high.

Then Sylvia faced the sea again and presently descended the terrace, crossing the long lawn toward the headland, where Seward stood looking out across the water.

Leila from the music room watched her; then she heard Plank's voice and his step on the stairs, and she called out to him gayly:

"I am downstairs, thank you. How dared you send me those foolish nurses!"

She was laughing when he came into the room, standing there erect, head high, a brilliant color in her cheeks, and she offered him both hands, which he took between his own, holding them strongly and looking into her face with steady, questioning eyes.

"Well?" she said, still smiling, but her scarlet underlip trembled a little; then: "Yes, you may say what you wish—what I—I wish you to say. There can be no harm in talking about it. But will you be very gentle with me? Don't make me cry. I have—I am trying to remember how it feels to laugh once more."

Sylvia, lying in the hot sand on the tiny crescent beach under the cliffs, listened gravely to Seward's figures as, notebook in hand, he went over the real estate problem, commenting thoughtfully as he discussed the houses offered.

He turned to look at her, and she lay there, silent, blue eyes looking back into his. Suddenly they glimmered with tears, and she stretched out both arms, drawing his head down to hers convulsively, her quivering mouth crushed against his lips. Then she rose to her knees, to her feet, dazed, brushing the tears from her eyes.

"To think—to think," she stammered, "that I might have let you face the world alone! Dearest, dearest, we must fight a good fight."

He looked straight into her eyes, fearlessly, tenderly, and she looked back with the divine, untroubled gaze of a child, laying her slender, sun tanned hands in his.

And, deep in his body, as he stood there, he heard the low challenge of his soul on guard, and he knew that the enemy listened.

THE END.

Change In Hospitality.

"It is strange," sighed the blue eyed girl, "how quickly even your best friends will learn to regard you with suspicion. Take my case, for example. When I boarded and had to pay for all my meals whether I ate them in the boarding house or not I had a standing invitation at several places to drop in any time for dinner. My friends knew I wouldn't save anything by partaking of their hospitality, and they always were urging me to come."

"But now everything is changed. I eat out now and pay for each meal as I get it; consequently all those standing invitations have been tacitly but none the less unmistakably recalled. The fact that I am saving the price of a dinner every time I eat with them makes my friends think I am trying to economize at their expense. I am just as cheerful a guest now as formerly, I don't eat any more and am not a bit more trouble, but I find that not even my closest friends want to feel that they are being used for a good thing."—New York Press.

Frankness In Invitations.

Among curiosities which are models of frankness is the following: "Lord and Lady Spencer request the honor of — company at dinner at half past 6 o'clock on —. An answer is particularly desired. Nobody waited for after 7 o'clock."

On many invitations the time was, of course, stated, and "A polite answer requested," or sometimes "A reply would oblige," but the letters "R. S. V. P." were hardly ever used at this date, their first mention being in 1781, on the card of Lord and Lady Kerry. Indeed, till quite recently "An answer will oblige" was the general formula, and it is only in the last thirty years that the French form has been at all generally adopted in England.—Windsor Magazine.

Skating at the Kramer rink every night.

The Vaudeville and Grand five cent theatres both showed to well pleased crowds last night. The same bills will be repeated tonight.

The day has passed when theatre patrons will pay to have their intelligence insulted by productions of melodramas with impossible sensational scenes and they are as equally tired of the frivolous so called "musical comedies," which are nothing but burlesque entertainments under another name.

"Bud Hicks, The Yankee Doodle Boy" tells a pure consistent story of American life, sweetly pathetic in spots, in others strongly dramatic, but the main element is comedy and good honest comedy it is—the kind that you are not ashamed to laugh at. The play is one of the big successes of the season and Messrs. Powell & Cohan, its sponsors, have been obliged to promise return dates in several cities to satisfy the popular demand. The company has received glowing press notices for clever work—both vocal and dramatic.

The book and lyrics are by Halon Powell and the music for the ten big song hits by Carlo Portello. "The Yankee Doodle Boy" will be the attraction at the Grand Friday night Feb. 28th. Stats on sale at Hargrove & Mullin.

Within the last few weeks the greater part of the necessary machinery has been installed in the first American linen mill at North Brookfield, Mass. Heretofore it has been impossible to manufacture linen in the United States, owing to the great cost of labor by European methods. The Oxford Linen mill at North Brookfield will operate under the Mudge process, which accomplishes in twelve hours what takes at least sixteen weeks by old world methods. Other Oxford mills will be equipped as rapidly as possible, and large profits are anticipated from this new undertaking. The Mudge process covers the whole work of reclaiming the linen fiber from the flax straw, degumming, bleaching and finishing.

PLOT FRUSTRATED

Russian Police Beat Youthful Terrorists In Ways That Are Dark.

HAD TWO VICTIMS IN VIEW

Grand Duke Nicholas and the Minister of Justice Said to Have Been Marked For Slaughter.

Most of the Half Hundred Prisoners Are Mere Youths, But Were Well Supplied With Money.

St. Petersburg, Feb. 22.—The frustration in this city Thursday of a terrorist plot and the arrest of no less than fifty men and women for alleged complicity, was followed Friday by the capture of several other persons implicated in the abortive attempt at assassination, who were gathered in just as they were trying to escape. The police believe that they have made the most important move against the terrorists that has been engineered in several years.

The plot came very much nearer maturity than did the last unsuccessful conspiracy against the emperor, the participants in which were tried and condemned last July. According to the police, the band that started out to do murder had two victims in view, Grand Duke Nicholas Nikolaievitch, son of Grand Duke Michael, and M. Tcheglovitoff, the minister of justice. Both the grand duke and the minister were to have been assassinated between their residences and the railroad station for Tsarskoe Selo, where they were going to see the emperor. Two distinct revolutionary organizations were concerned. The first had its headquarters in Finland and the second was the so-called northern flying column, recruited in the vicinity of Moscow.

Alarmed at the recent arrests of agitators at Viborg and Helsingfors and the prospective closing of Finnish territory as a shelter from which to conduct their operations, the first organization decided to put its plans into immediate execution. The Moscow allies were notified and joined the group from Finland in St. Petersburg. The police, however, had been informed of what was in the air, and took steps accordingly. The arrests followed.

Most of the prisoners are between seventeen and twenty-one years of age, well dressed and well supplied with money. The Italian who was taken in on the Grande Morskaja is the accredited correspondent of two prominent radical Italian newspapers, one at Rome and the other at Milan. He was in receipt of the press privileges of the house of parliament and the council of the empire. His friends, however, insist that he had no connection with the plot and the Italian embassy is taking steps to have the matter of his arrest investigated promptly.

DENIES LEWIS'S TESTIMONY

Pennsylvania's Former Auditor General Spends a Day on the Stand. Harrisburg, Pa., Feb. 22.—Former Auditor General Snyder, a co-defendant with Sanderson, Shumaker and Mathues in the capitol conspiracy suit now on trial in the Dauphin county court, spent all day Friday on the stand under direct examination.

Snyder's attorneys pled him with questions that affected every transaction with which the former auditor general had to do in connection with the capitol furnishing contracts. He refused in emphatic terms virtually all the testimony of S. B. Lewis, assistant to Architect Joseph M. Huston, as regarded any suspicious circumstances that tended to establish that he had entered into a conspiracy to cheat and defraud the state.

Snyder declared that he had tested the correctness of all of the capitol furnishing bills, and in every possible way safeguarded payments made to the contractors. The trial will be resumed Monday.

$4,000,000 Concern in Chancery.

Chicago, Feb. 22.—The assets of the Vista Permosa Sugar and Mercantile company, a $4,000,000 Mexican concern, have been placed in the hands of John Holland, master in chancery, by Judge Carpenter of the circuit court of Cook county. The complainant was Mahon Bosworth of Pittsburg, who filed a bill for an accounting some months ago. Master Holland will act until certificate holders of the company, of which there are 1,200 in all parts of the country, can be notified.

DEATH DUE TO GAS

New York Society Shocked by Tragical Death of Mrs. Burden.

New York, Feb. 22.—Mrs. William Proudft Burden, who was Natica Rives, daughter of O. H. P. Belmont and a society favorite in New York, Newport and Washington, was found dead in bed at her Fifth avenue home yesterday. Death, the coroner decided, was accidental and due to gas poisoning. A disconnected gas tube which had led from a chandelier to a drop light so placed that Mrs. Burden might read while propped up in bed, permitted a flow of gas that filled the room and, escaping into the hall, finally attracted the attention of the servants.

Mrs. Burden was twenty-two years of age and since her marriage on April 17, 1907, she and her husband had occupied the beautiful home of the latter's father, the late James A. Burden, at 908 Fifth avenue. The discovery of her death threw the household into confusion, and when the facts became generally known, created a sensation in the social set to which the Burdens belong. Mr. Burden had spent the night in another part of the house and learned of his wife's death from the servants, who had entered her room at 10 o'clock in the morning. Entering the house at 11 o'clock Thursday night, Mr. Burden had noticed that a light was still burning in his wife's room and, passing the door, called out, "Good-night," Mrs. Burden responded "Good-night," in a tone that indicated that she was in her usual health and spirits.

Mrs. Burden had been in the habit of reading after retiring, and this practice recently led her to have a gas reading lamp placed in her room. This stood on a stand conveniently near the head of the bed. At 10 o'clock Thursday night Mrs. Burden, leaving directions that she be called at 10 o'clock in the morning, dismissed her maid and settled herself in bed with a book. The greeting to her husband later was the last heard from the room. Passing through the hall on her way to Mrs. Burden's room on the second floor yesterday morning, the maid detected the odor of gas, and, hastily entering the chamber, found her mistress dead. The room was filled with gas, though a window was open several inches from the bottom. The fumes were pouring from the rubber tubing directly into the dead woman's face. Mrs. Burden's physicians were summoned and they in turn notified the coroner. The latter's investigation showed that the gas tube had been disconnected from the lamp. Apparently having become drowsy, Mrs. Burden had reached from her bed and turned off the lamp cock instead of taking the trouble to get up and shut off the gas at the chandelier jet. In some manner undetermined the tube became loosened at the lower end and slipping off the feed pipe of the lamp, lay in such a position that the flow of poisonous gas was directed into the sleeper's face. The dead woman lay as in sleep without a sign of physical or mental disturbance. Near the open window to which he had crawled, and almost dead from gas, was found Mrs. Burden's little pet, a white Pomeranian terrier, which had been permitted to sleep in the room.

Mrs. Burden was the daughter of the first Mrs. Oliver H. P. Belmont, who was Miss Sally Whiting, and who secured a divorce some time after her daughter was born. She retained custody of the child and afterward married George L. Rives, at one time corporation counsel of New York. Following the divorce of her mother and the adoption by Mr. Rives, the daughter took the name of her mother's second husband.

May Secure New Delegates.

Marysville, O., Feb. 22.—The Eighth district congressional convention called to name a candidate to succeed Congressman Ralph Cole, adjourned sine die without having made any nomination. There had been 1,011 ballots taken and the 1,012th was being called when the motion to adjourn was made. The matter of calling another convention with a new set of delegates was passed up to the congressional committee.

Gave a Flower Party.

Berlin, Feb. 22.—February last night gave way to May in Berlin, at least within the walls of the American embassy in Koenigs Platz, which was a veritable bower of multi-colored flowers and green foliage. The occasion was a grand floral ball, given by Charlemagne Tower, the American ambassador, and Mrs. Tower, and it was, perhaps, the most brilliant of the many brilliant functions given by American ambassadors to Germany. Flowers and foliage were everywhere, and from an ingenious arrangement of electric lights, artificial sunshine winnowed through leaves and blooms and fell upon the ballroom floor, giving to the scene the aspect of a perfect day in May. The toilets of the women were gorgeous, each of them representing a flower. The assemblage was a notable one.

En Route to the Philippines.

San Francisco, Feb. 22.—The United States army transport Crook has sailed for Honolulu, Guam and Manila with 271 men of the Fifth artillery for the Philippines, sixteen marines for the station at Guam and an number of cabin passengers. She also carries a cargo of army supplies including 10,000 rifles and a large quantity of ammunition.

Homes for the Unemployed.

Pittsburg, Feb. 22.—Sixteen unemployed Pittsburgers, having families, left here last night for Munroe, La., where they will be given a farm home, tools and seed and an opportunity to buy the land they cultivate. The same inducements are being offered to forty other families. Their transportation is paid. All the arrangements are under the direction of J. L. Knoepfner, secretary of the Louisiana state board of immigration, who is now in this city.

Shortage Said to Be $148,350.

New York, Feb. 22.—H. F. Stevens of Syracuse has been chosen a director of the New York and New Jersey Telephone company to succeed Henry S. Snow, who is now being sought by the police on a charge of embezzlement. According to a statement submitted to the stockholders of the company, the shortage in Snow's accounts amount to $148,350.

MEAL FOR A GIANT.

Two Acres of Potatoes to Satisfy Jersey Farm Hand's Appetite.

Because of his gastronomical tendencies two extra acres of potatoes will be planted in the spring for the benefit of Clarence Emmons, employed on the farm of Carlton Haines at Tabernacle, near Mount Holly, N. J.

Emmons, who is a first class workman on the farm, is an expensive boarder, but the situation warrants his retention because of the scarcity of farm laborers. Mr. Haines reports that at one meal the other day Emmons ate two loaves of bread, half a peck of potatoes, meat and other things in abundance, besides drinking half a gallon of milk. Emmons is a giant in strength and says he requires an extra quantity of food.

Rich Man's Plan to Escape Microbes.

Pursued by a morbid horror of microbes, which he believes infest the earth, Jarvis Smith, a wealthy aged resident of Mount Vernon, N. H., is constructing a house on stilts, in three sections, reached by ladders. He believes these will be microbe proof, and here he will live, persistently refusing to mingle with a crowd of people where he believes microbes abound. He wears straps about the bottoms of his trousers to prevent microbes getting to him while he is on the ground.

"THE FRIENDLY FIFTY."

Immigrant Children Form Society to Keep Up Acquaintance.

Nearly fifty little immigrant children while on parole at the Hebrew Sheltering House for Immigrants in New York became so attached to each other since their arrival in the United States a few weeks ago that they pledged themselves to keep in communication with each other after they had left the Sheltering House for various cities in the middle west. For this purpose they formed an organization and elected a full roll of officers.

The children, who recently left for their scattered homes, are from eight to fourteen years old. Martha Matlofsky, twelve years old, first suggested the formation of a society whose name freely translated is "Friendly Fifty." Superintendent Lampert acted as legal adviser when the children resolved themselves into a constitutional assembly.

Martha was elected president and Hannah Seigel, one year her junior, vice president. The secretaryship went to Solomon Bloom, a mere boy, who will live in Pittsburg. The directors are all girls. They are Sarah Abelsman, twelve years old; Esther Boradov, seven years; Rose Brunstein, eleven years, and Chaim Katz, who has forgotten when she was born.

Peter Schobin, who was stricken with paralysis while at work at his home in Jackson township a few days ago, is improving nicely and hopes are entertained for his speedy recovery.

Morristown Sun: O. O. Frazier carried the happiest message in town last Monday morning. He has a right to be jubilant. On Sunday afternoon a second son, weighing 8½ pounds came to his home.

Don't forget your lawn, if you want to have a nice stand of grass this summer. Avoid walking over it if you had it leveled up and sown last year. If not, rake it over the first warm day, if the ground will admit it and then sow the grass seed.

Morristown Sun: "The M. H. S. basket ball boys go to Atlanta Saturday evening to meet the Walnut Ridge team that played in Morristown two weeks ago. A hard contest is ahead of the boys in this game, but we expect to see them win, as usual—it's their record."

Shelbyville Democrat: "Grandpa" Major has a rival. That genial optimist, M. E. Cole, Thursday became a grand-uncle by the birth of a son to Mr. and Mrs. Charles F. Mitchell, of Rushville, and has been "whooping it up" ever since. Mrs. Mitchell is a niece of Mr. Cole.

You Can't be Downhearted.

That is, you can't while you are taking Sexine Pills. They dispel the disposition and by their fine tonic action replace that worn out, "all-in" condition with buoyancy, vigor and good cheer. Price $1.00 a box; six boxes $5.00, fully guaranteed on the money-back plan. Address or call Hargrove & Mullin, Rushville. This is the store that sells all of the principal remedies and does not substitute.

The Daily Republican asks its readers to assist in getting out a new paper. We are doing all we can, but there are many items of news that we are unable to get. So please remember that when there is anything of a new nature that you know about, call us and tell us all about it.

There is much grip. Have you noticed this disease becomes prevalent just at the season when people shut their homes tight to keep out the cold? Don't breathe air over and over again. Ventilate your sleeping rooms, flush them out thoroughly with fresh air morning and night. Fuel is cheaper than sickness. Pure air is the best tonic.

DEATH WAS GREAT SHOCK TO MOTHER

Mary Webb Did not Know of Daughter's Death Until Remains Arrived

Mrs. Amelia Seward, who died at her home in Kentucky Thursday, had just returned home from a visit with relatives in this city last week. Owing to a delay in the telegram the relatives here did not know she was dead until the remains reached this city and the shock has left her mother, Mrs. Mary Webb, in a serious condition.

Deceased leaves a husband, five children, four brothers, Sellman and Albert Webb, of this city, Jasper Webb, of Marion, Samuel Webb of Michigan, and besides her mother, Mrs. Mary Webb. She leaves one sister, Mrs. Menora Litteral, of this city. The funeral services will be held at the home of her son, Basil Seward, 444 West First street, Sunday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock, conducted by Rev. R. W. Abberley. Burial will occur at East Hill cemetery.

AN INSULT TO QUENCH THEIR THIRST AT LAUREL

If five saloons are an inducement to the trade from the farmers about Laurel, says the Laurel Review, why do not our merchants send a statement of that fact to the farmers out toward Milroy and Metamora? Write personal letters to them and tell them to come this way to quench their thirst. It would be an insult, and they would resent it and trade elsewhere.

Republican Want-Ads bring result.
